The Problem with Strategy Deployment

When your team is working on a Strategy Deployment plan, it is critical that you keep all of your data, documentation, and records organized. Your team is likely making different documents:

- On different computers
- By different people,
- With no clear centralization.

What happens if a team member leaves, or data becomes lost, or people lose access to certain documents?

These issues are the reasons why your projects aren't getting off the launch pad. The Strategy Deployment App, part of the ResultWare™ suite of apps, was built to centralize and secure all data, documents, records, etc. in one place for all team members to access anytime, anyplace. By having data kept together, your team can seamlessly coordinate to get projects from start to finish.

Automate the tasks of collecting, linking, collating, and visualizing data.

Minimize waste, maximize impact.

Keep data secure and accessible.

ResultWare™

ResultWare™ is a suite of Power Apps that help to streamline any Lean process in your business. Whether you're planning a Kaizen event or creating a Strategy Deployment plan, all apps apart of the ResultWare™ suite are designed to give you the result you need to achieve your Lean goals.

Built on Microsoft's revolutionary Power Platform, your organization can seamlessly integrate any or all Power Apps into your organization without disrupting any of your existing software. And the best part, you can save over hundreds of thousands of dollars a year with no recurring subscription fees.

Strategy Deployment App

How Does the App Work?

As you know, multi-level Strategy Deployment creates enormous value, but it requires a lot of data, documentation, etc. which has the potential to create errors or waste. It also coordinates the complex activities of many people, and each level is dependent on the level below, creating even more moving parts.

With the Strategy Deployment App, your team uses standardized documents within one app to completely organize data and documents without error or data loss.

While you may be used to the rhythm of waiting on team members to send you spreadsheets via email or other unsecure means, now it's all made and stored within the same place. No delay, no errors, and no waste.
